HAYES IN COURT AGAIN.

Sent to Jail in Default of Bail Bond and $10 Fine.

Lonnie Hayes, was placed under a peace bond of $50 for six months and required to pay a fine of $10 and costs by Mayor Thornton F. Jones yesterday. The young man was charged with trespassing upon the property of Mr. Hoxler, his relative, and in default of the money and bond went to jail.

It is thought that friends of the young man, whose greatest trouble is due to drinking, will probably give the bond and pay the fine for him within a few days. Unless this is done young Hayes will remain in jail nearly seven months.

Called His bluff.

"What?" cried the brutal husband. "You gave that old overcoat of mine to a tramp? You should have asked me first. I had placed a hundred dollars in bills in one of the pockets of that coat, simply to have the money in a safe place until you should want to purchase some clothes." "William Henry Sudsaworth," replied the fond wife, fixing him with a judicial eye. "You worked that game on me two years ago. I went through the pocket of that coat and found a worn-out glove, six cloves, five carloman seeds, four matches and a suburban time card. I'm going shopping for my dress tomorrow."

One Eyed Giants.

Sir John Mandeville saw all sorts of queer things and wrote about them in his celebrated book of travels. It was in 1533 that the voracious John visited a certain group of isles (yes he called them) which was inhabited by a race of one eyed giants. Of them he says: "In one of these isles live folk of gruff stature, as giants, and they been hideous for to look upon. An they had but one eye, and that is in ye middle of ye front." He also tells of another one of these "isles" inhabited by a race of one legged dwarfs, each having three eyes.

Nothing but Fruit.

"T-say, I'd give anything to be as strong and healthy as you are," remarked the lazy man. "What do you live on?"

"Nothing but fruit," answered the other.

"What kind of fruit?"

"The fruit of industry," was the brief but significant reply.

A TURKISH LEGEND.

Why the Much Married Man Got to the Mosque First.

Some years ago, when General Tewfik Hussein was the Turkish minister at Washington, he objected to the curious questions the newspaper interviewers asked him about the harem. One interviewer, however, told the representative of the sublime Porte a funny story about Brigham Young and his many wives, and it induced the minister to reciprocate.

"There is a Turkish legend," he said, "to the effect that if a man prays seven consecutive mornings alone in the mosque for good luck it will come. Near St. Sophia mosque, Constantinople, a poor man lived who tried to carry out the injunction; but, when he knelted, to his chagrin he always saw another man who had arrived first. The fourth morning he could restrain himself no longer and cried out: 'What is the secret of your getting to the mosque first? I get up early and lose no time.' The other man asked, 'How many wives have you?' When he answered 'One,' the fortunate man said: 'You can never get to the mosque earlier than I, for I have four wives. When I wake up one brings me my clothes, another gets my shoes, a third prepares my bath, and the fourth cooks breakfast. The result is I lose no time. Now, my friend, go at once and marry three other wives, and you will know the secret of my arriving first at the mosque!'

"The poor Turk followed the advice, and very soon he knew why the man with four wives got to the mosque first—he stayed there in preference to staying at home."—Leslie's Weekly.

LONDON PUNCH.

One Occasion When the Proprietor Wanted It Stopped.

The introduction of Sir Francis Burnand to the staff of Punch led to an unusual incident. The bookbinder tells the story. Mr. Burnand had given up his profession of law and was devoting himself to writing. It occurred to him that a burlesque on the sensational novel of the day and printed after the manner of the London Journal might make a popular hit. He proposed his plan to the editor of Punch, who at once accepted the idea. The first installment came out, illustrated by Gilbert, Du Maurier and Keene and reproduced in Journal fashion. It "took" at once and became the talk of the town.

The day of the first issue the senior proprietor of Punch was ill in bed. The number reached him with the Journal burlesque folded on the outside. At first he thought a Journal had been sent him by mistake, but when he discovered that the page formed a portion of Punch he did not stop to read it, but sprang out of bed at once, dressed and hurried to the office.

"Stop Punch!" he cried, bursting into the room. "Stop Punch! You've got a page of the Journal in the form!"

It took considerable explanation to satisfy him that some dreadful mistake had not been made.

This was Mr. Burnand's first appearance on the Punch staff. The next night Thackeray took him to the weekly dinner and introduced him: "Gentlemen—the new boy."

Buttons.

Buttons are certainly as ancient as the siege of Troy, in the ninth century before our era, for both in that unfortunate city and at Mycenae, Dr. Schliemann discovered objects of gold, silver and bronze which could have had no other use than that of buttons. In mediæval times the clothing of the common people was generally fastened with wooden pegs of the type and form of those resorted to in emergencies by the country boy of the present day. Buttons covered with cloth were prohibited by George I. in 1720 to encourage the manufacture of metal buttons.

Suspicious.

"Mother," says the doubting wife, "I do not believe Henry is all that he should be."

"What is wrong with him now, Agnes? A short time ago you were complaining that he stayed out too late at nights. Is he staying out later than ever?"

"No. He spends every evening at home now, and really that looks to me as though he had something on his conscience."—Life.

PLEDGE COST HIM $51,213.

Prosecuting Attorney at Chicago Turns Fees Over to County.

CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 10.—pre-election pledge cost State's Attorney Healey $51,213 today. The money reached Mr. Healey in the form of office fees. Some of his predecessors have turned such sums over to Cook County. The majority have kept it.

Healey promised in many speeches during his campaign for election to content himself with the $10,000 salary and to give all fees to the county. Since then the Supreme Court has decided that the money belongs to the State's attorney.

Mr. Healey considered himself bound, however, by his pre-election pledge. Today he sent his check to President Brandage, of the county board, for all fees collected to date.
